The

1951 PENNSMAN

Published by the students PENNSBURY HIGH

Foreword

"BUILD THEE MORE stately mansions, oh, my soul, as the swift seasons roll!" We hope to show in this, the 1951 Pennsman, with the building of the new Pennsbury High School as the theme, the way by which we, the students, have been developed, both in minds and bodies, into fine structures that will be lasting through many years of calm and storm.

Therefore, we would like to dedicate this builders' log to our entire Pennsbury school system. We have tried through our write-ups, photography, and art work to carry through our theme showing the part that a school plays in the building of a nation and world, strong in the ideals for which we stand.

Just as the architects laid the foundation for the edifice which is to be our new school, our School Board has laid the foundation for the development of the material from within. Likewise the faculty, our foremen, have guided and directed our work in a manner which they think will bring forth the best results.

As the main workers, our seniors have emerged from the system well prepared to enter a world that is ever evolving and growing with new ideas and problems. Behind them they have left the journeymen and apprentices who will grow and age along with the new school.

We wish to thank the architects, foremen, and workers who are building the new Pennsbury High School as well as the architects and foremen who planned and directed tne learning within the old Pennsbury High School. All of you have had a part in making us the builders of tomorrow.

SCHOOL Fallsington, Pennsylvania

FOREMEN

MR. FORREST C. JOBES
President, Pennsbury School Board

We students seldom realize that our education is the result of the service and supervision of three groups of civic-minded persons composed of the administration, Parent-Teachers' Association, and School Board. These people, genuinely interested in youth and its welfare, have taken our problems as their challenge and duty with unusual foresight.

All successful, lasting buildings must have well organized plans. As the architects of this project, our Administration, P.T.A., and School Board, have tried to design and organize a system through which the workers may succeed in becoming well-rounded citizens of a universe desperately demanding men and women prepared in attacking the challenges which face them day by day. As their share in developing these plans, the Administration—consisting of Mr. Medill Bair, Regional Superintendent; Mr. William Ingraham, Assistant Regional Superintendent; and Mr. R. Currier, Principal, who has just recently become a member of Pennsbury's System—has established a work-shop in which is organized the desired program for the student body. Also

President, Pennsbury Parent-Teachers' Association

MR. RICHARD L. CURRIER
Principal

they have set up new courses and taken on new faculty members to allow the students to have the advantages constituted by these additional classes, namely, Advanced Biology, Business Law, Creative Writing, Dramatics, and Public Speaking.

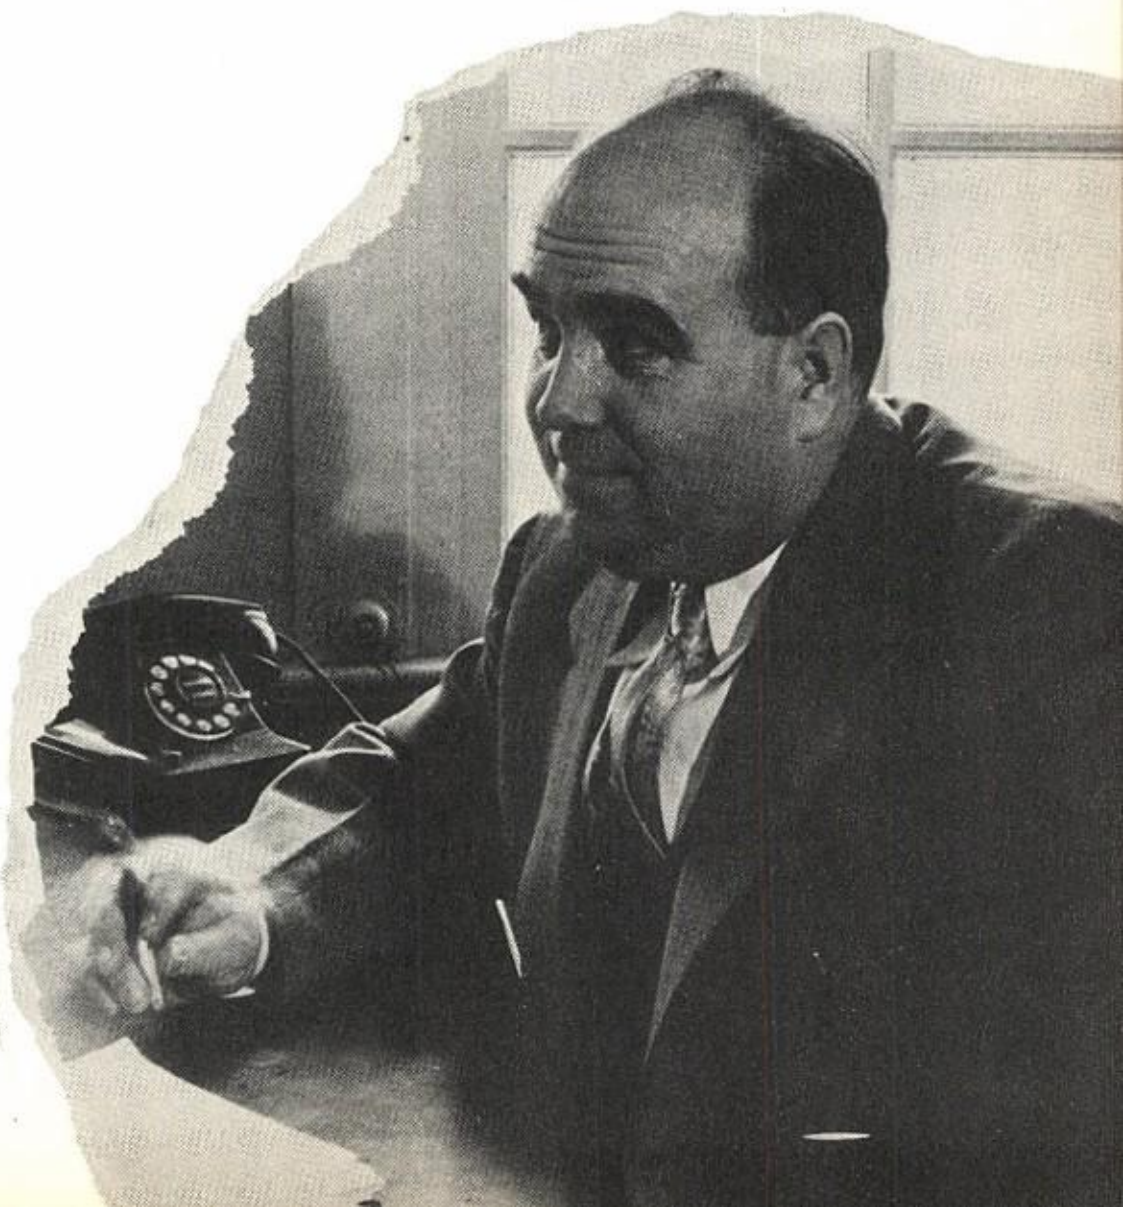
Our P.T.A., of which Mr. Drake is president, consists of the parents of the students and the teachers of Pennsbury. This year they have, as in previous years, provided two scholarships to enable two students to attend schools of further education. Also they have given a banquet for outstanding workers of the High School at which time they awarded medals of merit to the most deserving. To establish smoother ties between teachers and parents, the P.T.A. has organized adult study groups.

Last and most important, the School Board, again presided over by Mr. Forrest Jobes, has done an excellent job of communicating with Harrisburg to enable further development in the plans of a badly needed new High School.

As Longfellow once said, "All are architects of fate working in these walls of time."

MR. MEDILL BAIR
Regional Superintendent

MR. WILLIAM INGRAHAM
Assistant Regional Superintendent



AN UNDERSTANDING faculty makes for a good future. If this statement is true, Pennsbury High School is on the road to being one of the best schools in this vicinity. As our foremen, the faculty have tried to understand our problems and advise us. Just as in building, the foremen advise the workers in order to help them become better builders, so have our foremen tried to advise us in order to make us better builders of the future.

A new system used this year, in the hope that it would help the students, is the division of grades into three sections. Mrs. E. Carfagno is head advisor of the eleventh and twelfth grades; Miss I. Creagmile, head advisor of the ninth and tenth grades; and Miss M. Kelly, head advisor of the seventh and eighth grades. Each head advisor confers at least twice a week with the teachers of each class to discuss any problems which might arise and to study needs of pupils.

Each foreman is well trained, already holding master's degrees and in the process of taking graduate work towards higher degrees. Each foreman, also, believes in a philosophy upholding the view that a child's mind and character are all important, the optimum development of which must be constantly striven for.

This is a hold-up, kids!

SEPTEMBER 7, 1950, arrived and students greeted one another as they started back to school. Everyone was bubbling over with excitement and each had a yarn of summer experiences to tell.

As the students entered school they found many new changes. New teachers greeted them as they entered their assigned homerooms. New courses were open to them: Advanced Biology, Business Law, Creative Writing, Dramatics, and Public Speaking.

Most important innovation was probably the organization of the school into three divisions —upper, middle, and lower, each with its own supervisor. In addition, all the freshmen were assembled in the Fallsington Building. To accommodate these extra students, the high school had obtained three elementary class rooms in the Fallsington Building and also the Fallsington Annex, better known as the "Chicken Coop."

They found, too, that separate assemblies were arranged for each division and musical assemblies were arranged for every other week in order that the upper-divisions might enjoy music, which is not included in their schedule.

The establishment of intramural sports in the Yardley Building aimed to abolish any noontime problems and create better sportsmanship among the students. Square dancing, darts, cards, and checkers aimed to abolish any problems in the upper grades.

It is hoped through these changes the students will develop into worthy workers of the world.

JUST AS BRICK work, masonry, and plumbing go into the making of the new school, so do the various activities go into making a Pennsbury student a well-rounded citizen in tomorrow's democracy. To develop the physical phase, activities such as basketball, boys' athletic clubs, baseball, girls' athletic clubs, hockey, football, and softball are offered. To develop the social graces, dancing clubs, the Junior Prom, the Senior Ball, informal sports dances, and canteen are scheduled. To develop leadership and self-governing ability, Honor Society, Student Council, and Student Court have been established. To offer opportunities to develop hidden talents, the Color Guard, the Majorettes, the Band, the chorus groups, the junior and senior plays and numerous clubs have been programmed into the curriculum. The result is a well-constructed building, each activity serving a vital part in its construction.

STUDENT COUNCIL...

In every democratic organization each member must have representation, must formulate policy, and must solve problems. The students of Pennsbury exercise this right through the Student Council.

During this past year the senior high Student Council, for the first time in Pennsbury High, established a student court to carry out discipline democratically. In addition to this, the council conducted the annual magazine subscription campaign and continued with the canteen, making it more successful than ever.

The junior high Student Council, this year, besides beginning a program to establish various clubs, contributed to the War Orphan fund and climaxed this action by adopting an orphan and sending money for his support.

Officers included (in the Fallsington building) Edward Curley, president; Donald Williams, vice-president; Carolyn Glatz, secretary; and Elwood Fritz, treasurer; (in the Yardley building) Lowell Williams, president; Joseph Crosby, vice-president; Roberta Meyers, secretary; and Rachel De Cou, treasurer.

...HONOR SOCIETY

DOROTHY PATTERSON,
Chapter President

Processing to the music of "Pomp and Circumstance" and holding flickering candles in a darkened auditorium, the charter members of Pennsbury's National Honor Society entered upon the stage to initiate incumbent seniors and juniors on Friday evening, October 20, 1950. Bases for faculty election to the society include leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

Projects undertaken by the group comprised three: a student handbook which will be revised each year thereafter; a drive for small necessities forwarded to the soldiers at Valley Forge; and a College Night, during Christmas vacation, at which college attending alumni informally spoke in Mr. Bair's home to juniors, seniors and parents.

Officers of the chapter this year included Dorothy Patterson, president; Dolores Lake, vice-president; and Edna Mae Patterson, secretary. Miss Mary Dwyer served as sponsor.

Room 8 presented a picture humming with activity every Tuesday and Friday afternoon as Margie Seymour, between straight-from-the-shoulder lectures to her staff, organized and carried through the 1951 Pennsman to its completion.

One snag that proved a blow about the middle of January (just before the deadline) was the printer's request that all photographs be submitted in the sizes indicated in the working dummy (a blueprint of each page layout for those of you new to journalistic jargon). Of course, practically all the pictures had already been printed in all dimensions but the exact ones.

Just as laboriously worked the business group, who handled all subscriptions and advertisement sales. Total tally showed that 350 yearbooks were sold, half of the student body represented among the purchasers, and about $1,000 worth of "ads."

Sponsor Miss I. Creagmile discusses layout with editor-in-chief M. Seymour.

One of the busiest and most important sections of the yearbook staff was the photographic group, under the leadership of Mr. A. Krespach and E. Reimer, student assistant. During the year over one hundred and fifty pictures were produced. Here can be seen E. Reimer and V. Barnhill working at the sink; E. Reager instructing J. Osler in the use of the enlarger while T. Ragolia (next year's photographic chief) looks on; C. Burger and A. Woodhouse drying the prints; and in the foreground C. Conrad teaching E. Heiber (guest) the operation of another type enlarger.

Competent reporting and imaginative description of the most recent school occurrences have helped the Pennsburian to increase its pages from a four-page to a fourteen-page production.

This year the Pennsburian returned to publishing its paper by means of mimeograph and produced numerous pages of art work.

Several new feature articles have been added to the paper, including opinion polls on current problems, stories from the creative writing class, and interviews with students and teachers. Lucy Ragolia, its editor-in-chief, has well earned her position of honor.

Pennsbury Band

Arthur Murray's Studio, Pennsbury version. Every Tuesday and Friday afternoons, numerous students gather in Dancing Club to practice steps and have a generally hilarious good time.

As we look back over the two full years of Pennsbury's existence, we can see a definite growth and improvement in the musical activities. In 1948-49 music in our school was insignificant compared to its status today.

A 25-piece marching and concert band, a girls' chorus, together with individual instrumental lessons, made up the musical activities of '48. This year, we have a 40-piece band, a 30-piece orchestra and a 7-piece dance band. In addition, we have a well-trained girls' chorus, boys' chorus and a male quartet in our vocal department. From these various vocal groups can be selected practically any combination to suit any occasion. The principal activity of these vocal groups is to present to the rest of the school an operetta each year.

With the encouragement and lessons provided for the vast numbers of musically talented elementary students, the optimistic Pennsman can forsee great things in the musical future.

The big event of the year was held on December 15, 1950, at the Trenton War Memorial Building. Of course, it was the class of "'51's" Senior Ball. The ball room was beautifully decorated with a fifteen-foot evergreen tree in the center and sprays of evergreen along the side panelled walls. Red ribbon, candy canes, and sparkling stars helped to accentuate the dark greens. Providing the music was Johnny Norcross' Orchestra.

TIME

All things helped to make the Senior Ball and the Junior Prom, given at the Langhorne Country Club, last June, two of the most wonderful social activities at Pennsbury High School. The Builders of "51" will always remember these two events as precedent-setting ones, insofar as this class was the first to choose a setting other than Makefield Auditorium for their activities.

"Curtain time! Curtain time! Hurry up—you're on!" With these loud whispers, another senior play, "A Little Bit of Honey," went on before the footlights of Makefield Auditorium. With a big gardenia corsage on her shoulder, Miss Hope Haggerty proudly viewed the results of her several weeks' work of untiring coaching. Her heart leaped, though, when someone stepped on the puppy backstage and he yelped pathetically in the middle of the most dramatic scene. Aside from misplacing a few props, the failure of the table lights to work, and the delayed arrival of the furniture, the play was a howling success.

A deserted old house on an isolated island, a sinister doctor, his housekeeper and her deaf mute son are all things contributing to the plot of "The Skeleton Walks," that feat of dramatic ability presented on February 23 by the Junior Class. The play, a three-act mystery by Felicia Metcalfe, was capably coached by our dramatic director, Miss H. Haggerty, who was assisted by stage manager Helen Shepherd.

...FOOTBALL

The powerful football team of Pennsbury got off to a much-improved start this year under the coaching of George Jarmoska. They not only beat Neshaminy, but they swept on to conquer the ever-dangerous Bristol High. Because of over-confidence, however, they had to be satisfied with a tie with Southampton and a loss to Pemberton in a tough game. In view of injuries to the team, the next three games were unfortunately dropped to Bensalem, Morrisville, and Council Rock. The fighting spirit of this unlucky eleven, however, refused to remain long hidden and they came back strong to win the two remaining games with Bordentown Manual and St. Francis.

The Falcons played three night games this year: one with Neshaminy which constituted the opening game of the season followed up immediately by the Bristol sortee. The rivalry between Morrisville and P. H. S. flaired up again in our third duel under the lights.

The coach and the team are looking forward to even bigger and better teams next year.

The high scorers for the year were: Jack Sands; Frank Hunter; Ed Curley; and Ray Bray.

This year, for the first time, an intra-mural sports program was introduced into the Junior High School. Beginning in the fall, six football teams were organized, composed of two teams from each of the three eighth-grade homerooms. Each team chose a name for itself: the Scarecrows, Eagles, Cubs, Rams, Ramblin' Wrecks, and Redskins. Together they made up two major leagues: the American League and the National League. After a full season of playing football, the National League came out victorious and the Ramblin' Wrecks emerged as the champion team.

Yes, our cheerleaders, coached by Miss C. Vella and captained by L. (Pee-Wee) Argenti, yelled loudly; the rooters were out there screaming; but Pennsbury's 1950 hockey team dropped from championship to tie for second place.

Coached by Mrs. D. Tompkins (Miss Morris before her marriage in December) and Miss B. A. Nielson, the varsity played hard and, losing only 4 games out of 9, had a fairly successful season. The captain was Barbara Green. The junior varsity played only

The Pennsbury High School basketball team had a fair season this year, with a record of 8 wins and 11 losses. Although the record is not so impressive, Pennsbury was outscored by only 20 points.

The team was coached by a newcomer this year, George Jarmoska, who came to us from Jersey Shore High School, Pa. His inexperience with the abilities of the boys and the relative lack of the players' experience contributed to the unimpressive record.

Elwood Fritz, the 6-foot, 4-inch center, was the team's high scorer with 221 points, an average of better than 12 points a game. "Tee" was the only member of the Pennsbury squad to make the All-District Team, which is composed of players from the surrounding area.

CHAMPS OF 1950

The 1950 baseball campaign was a very successful one inasmuch as the team, under the brilliant coaching of Wilmer F. Bachman, won fifteen out of sixteen baseball games, and clinched the 1950 Lower Bucks County baseball championship.

The championship, however, was partially jeopardized when in a game with Morrisville a decision in the course of play was not in accordance with the rules of the game and therefore was protested. In the replay of the game, Pennsbury showed the spirit and will to win that undoubtedly inspired the championship and brought home another Pennsbury victory and a league-clinching record.

Batting marks among the regulars were: Perry, .354; Paone, .352; Hunter, .349; Saunders, .311; Hibbs, .296; Sacks, .292; R. Bray, .283; and B. Bray, .275. Leader in runs batted in was John Paone.

The strategy that won.
